Pain Point

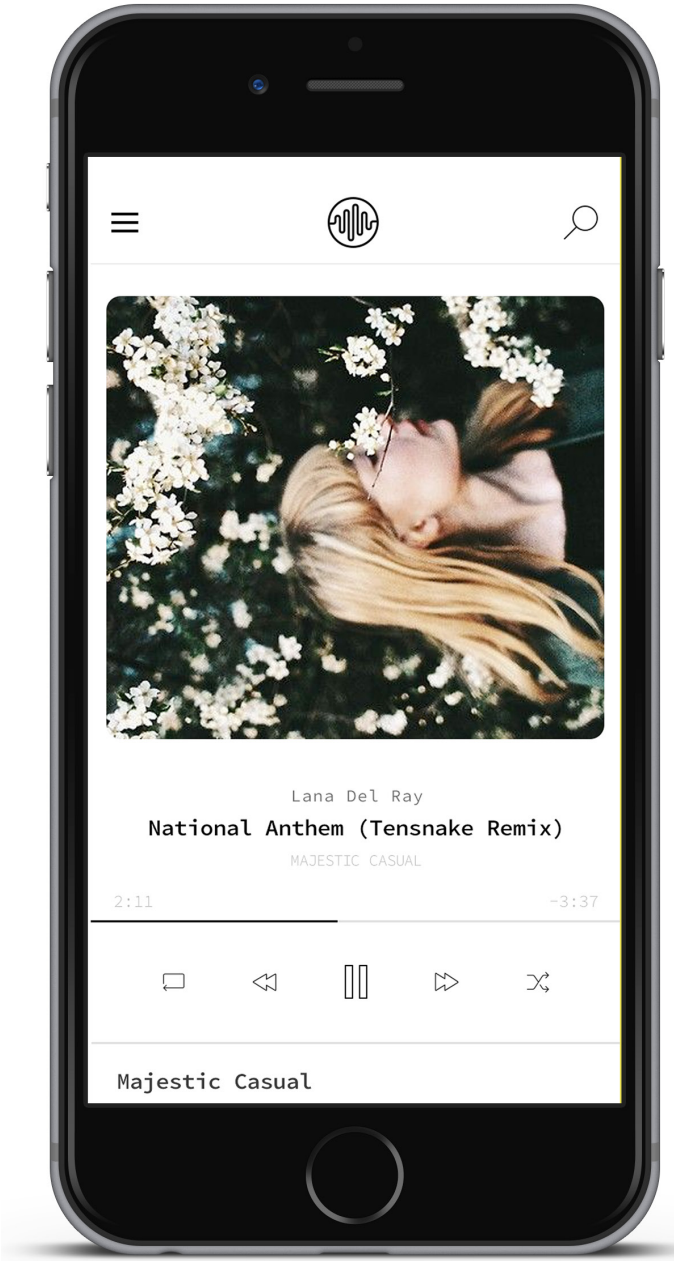
Music Finding Buddy App

1. It's hard to find super new music that you would love based on your listening history.

2. I want playlists based off of more than just a music genre. I want to search based of off places and moods and genres.

3. I want to make my own playlists for my peers to listen to and rate. So I always want an app more social than Soundcloud but more current than 8tracks.

4. I want to create playlists with friends that are more specific to our likes than just one genre.



Madrigal

Madrigal is a music buddy app that is a combination of Spotify, Facebook, and Soundcloud. It's key features are collaborative playlists and playlists search-able by any conceivable tag, not just genres. You can also upload your own songs which means you can listen to unlicensed remixes and any type of audio you could ever want.
